ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOUR
TEXT AND CASES

Avinash K. Chitale
Academic Advisor and Former Director
Govindram Seksaria Institute of Management and Research
Indore

Rajendra Prasad Mohanty
Vice Chancellor
Shiksha ‘O’ Anusandhan University
Bhubaneswar

Nishith Rajaram Dubey
Professor
National Institute of Technical Teacher’s Training & Research Institute
Bhopal

PHI Learning Private Limited
Delhi-110092
2013
To

the memory of our mentor

Late Dr. Samarendra Mohan Dasgupta

a great leader of people and

Director of NITIE, Bombay
Contents

Preface xxiii
Acknowledgements xxv

1. ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOUR—A CURTAIN RAISER 1–16
   Learning Objectives 1
   1.1 Introduction 1
   1.2 What is an Organization? 1
   1.3 Role Played by Organizations 2
   1.4 Organizational Effectiveness 3
   1.5 Organizational Behaviour 3
      1.5.1 Levels of Organizational Behaviour 3
      1.5.2 Foundations and Basic Assumptions of OB 4
      1.5.3 Importance of OB 5
      1.5.4 Shortcomings of OB 6
      1.5.5 Contemporary OB 7
      1.5.6 Scope of OB 9
      1.5.7 Contextual Perspectives in OB 9
      1.5.8 OB Model Considering the Influence of Board of Directors 11
      1.5.9 Organizational Effectiveness 12
   Summary 13
   Review Questions 14
   References 14
   Case Study 1 Organizational Behaviour and People Skills: An Essential Input to Managers 14
   Case Study 2 Enterprise Resource Planning and Organizational Behaviour 15

2. THE EMERGING CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES TO ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOUR 17–31
   Learning Objectives 17
   2.1 Introduction 17
4.2.3 Organizational Systems and Resources 49
4.2.4 Psychological Factors 51

4.3 Models of Individual Behaviour 52
4.3.1 Theory X and Theory Y Model 52
4.3.2 Economic and Self-Actualizing Model 52
4.3.3 Behavioural and Humanistic Model 52
4.3.4 Rational and Emotional Model 52

Summary 53

Review Questions 53
References 53

CASE STUDY Individual Behaviour Pattern of Mr. Singh 54

APPENDIX 55

5. PERSONALITY 56–89

Learning Objectives 56
5.1 Introduction 56
5.2 Definitions of Personality 57
5.3 Nature of Personality 58
5.4 Theories of Personality 58
5.4.1 Type Theory 59
5.4.2 Trait Theory 59
5.4.3 Psychoanalytic Theory 60
5.4.4 Social Learning Theory 63
5.4.5 The Humanistic Approach 65
5.4.6 Holistic Theory 66
5.5 The Shaping of Personality 67
5.5.1 Freudian Stages 67
5.5.2 Erikson Stages 68
5.5.3 Jean Piaget’s Cognitive Stages Model 69
5.5.4 Chris Argyris’ Immaturity-Maturity Theory 70
5.6 Determinants of Personality 71
5.6.1 Biological Factors 71
5.6.2 Familial Factors 73
5.6.3 Cultural Factors 73
5.6.4 Family and Social Factors 73
5.6.5 Situational Factors 74
5.7 Personality Traits 74
5.7.1 The Big-Five Personality Dimensions 74
5.8 Personality Traits 77
5.9 Measuring Personality: Outline of Personality Tests 78
5.9.1 Personality Tests 78
5.10 Personality Facets Influencing Organizational Behaviour 79
5.11 Matching Personalities with Job 82
5.12 Personality and Organizational Behaviour 83
6. ATTITUDES AND JOB SATISFACTION 90–113

Learning Objectives 90
6.1 Introduction 90
6.2 Attitude: Definitions 91
6.3 Nature of Various Attitudes 91
6.4 Attitudes Versus Beliefs 92
6.5 Values 92
6.6 Components of Attitude 94
6.7 Sources of Attitudes 95
6.8 Types of Attitudes 95
6.9 Functions of Attitudes 95
6.10 Attitude in Organization Behaviour 96
   6.10.1 Attitude Formation 96
   6.10.2 Attitudinal Change 97
6.11 Measurement of Attitude 98
   6.11.1 Measurement 98
6.12 Total Quality Management 101
6.13 Job Satisfaction 103
   6.13.1 Job Satisfaction and Job Behaviour 106
   6.13.2 Theoretical Views of Job Satisfaction 106
   6.13.3 Theories of Job Satisfaction 106
   6.13.4 Measurement of Job Satisfaction 108
6.14 Projective Techniques 109
Review Questions 109
References 110
Case Study Selecting Workers with Right Attitude 111
Appendix 113

7. LEARNING AND LEARNING THEORIES 114–138

Learning Objectives 114
7.1 Introduction 114
7.2 Defining Learning 115
7.3 Nature of Learning 115
7.4 How do We Learn? 116
   7.4.1 Theories of Learning 117
7.5 Shaping Behaviour 121
7.6 Strategies of Reinforcement 121
7.7 Schedules of Reinforcement 124
7.8 Use of Reinforcement Theory in Behaviour Modification (OB Mod) 125
7.9 Learning Principles 126
7.10 Steps of Learning 128
7.11 Major Conditions for Learning to be Effective 129
7.12 Adult Learning Theories 129
7.13 Learning Styles 131
7.14 Learning Process 132
7.15 Learning and OB 134
Summary 135
Review Questions 135
References 135
Case Study  Movino International 136
Appendix 138

8. PERCEPTION 139–166

Learning Objectives 139
8.1 Introduction 139
8.2 Definition 140
8.2.1 A Few More Definitions 141
8.3 Nature of Perception 141
8.4 Importance of Perception 142
8.5 Sub-Processes of Perception 144
8.5.1 Perceptual Process 144
8.5.2 Perceptual Organization 150
8.5.3 The Process of Interpreting 154
8.5.4 The Process of Checking 157
8.5.5 The Process of Reacting 157
8.6 Characteristics of the Perceiver 157
8.7 Attribution Theory 158
8.7.1 The Attribution Process 159
8.8 Management of Perception 160
Summary 161
Review Questions 161
References 162
Case Study 1 Examinations On Time: Perceptual Distortion: Projection 163
Case Study 2 Perception: Self-fulfilling Prophecy and Pygmation Effect 164

9. MOTIVATION AND WORK PERFORMANCE 167–197

Learning Objectives 167
9.1 Introduction 167
9.2 Motivation 167
9.3 Motivational Techniques are Culture Specific Phenomena 168
9.3.1 Intent Motivation Motivating 168
9.4 Theories of Motivation 170
9.4.1 Content Theories of Motivation 171
9.4.2 Cognitive or Process Theories of Motivation 176
Organizational Behaviour: Text And Cases

Publisher: PHI Learning
ISBN: 9788120346963
Author: CHITALE, A. K., MOHANTY, R. P., DUBEY, N. R.

Type the URL: http://www.kopykitab.com/product/7553

Get this eBook